Melendy's colleagues consistently compliment her ability to quickly form connections, establish credibility and generate buy-in to out of the box solutions.

Melendy is a strategic thinker with a career long record of white-glove customer first management and fiscally savvy decision making. She started her career as a serial entrepreneur operating multiple businesses aimed at making the lives of those most at risk in our community better. This included teaching domestic violence survivors marketable job skills and bridging the gap of computer literacy for youngsters suffering in the digital divide.

While her expertise spans markets and corporate best practices, throughout her career in both the public and private sectors the theme of making lives better carried on as she helped in creating programs and initiatives aimed at ensuring the success of young people. She is passionate about helping young people build their sense of self and tapping into their value and worth.

Melendy is an intuitive visionary that has practiced yoga and breathwork for over 18 years and calls both San Diego and Los Angeles home. She is a proponent of intergenerational support systems and currently lives with her mother, daughter, and granddaughter.

She holds a master's degree in organizational administration and a bachelor's degree in communications with an emphasis in public relations.
